

Metadata Health Checks: What's Up with That?

The good news? Within two weeks of the February 19th "health check" email we have seen a marked improvement in the quality of InCommon Federation metadata. The bad? We still have a very long way to go, with barely over 2% of IdPs and just under 10% of SPs meeting the baseline requirements. Take a look at a before-after snapshot, and find out why the health of your organization's metadata really matters. Read Nick Roy's blog on the metadata health checks and what they mean to you and the Federation.