ℹ️ UBC: There is a commitment (but not a formal enterprise commitment). The British Columbia Ministry of Education says it will use the standard for K-12. So far nothing has been done at UBC

ℹ️ UC-Irvine: there is a commitment to the standard and it is used as a guideline ❌ Washinton: tried to use the Admissions Application but the semantic impedance was too great.

❌ Indiana: Used to get PESC XML from high schools in the State of Indiana. However, the company that was doing the transmissions changed their policy on XML transmission to only allow those that were 100% compliant with the PESC standard to be transmitted in this manner. This limited IU to only 6 qualifying High Schools in the state of Indiana so the investment was no longer worth while.

Comments

UofT
Motivating to join the Canadian PESC user group.
While some of the IT people are aware of the PESC standards, the business people are not fully aware of the benefits.

MIT
Although som MIT staff were involved in the development of the IMS standards, noe of these standards (PESC or IMS) are currently being used.

Washington
UW tried to use the Admissions Application but the semantic impedance was too great.
