Navigation

The home page and top level pages have a new top navigation bar:

Home	Join	Events	Groups	Library	About
Our latest updates	Become a member	Join a call or meeting	Collaborate with peers	Resources for architects	Charter and contacts

The main navigation in the left sidebar will be replaced with "page tree" navigation that shows the user where they are within the site. We expect this to help people navigate ITANA's various sub-sites, such as working groups.

The "Recently Discussed" option is being removed from the main navigation. This content is being featured on the home page and in the Library.

Top Level Pages

Join page: The Join link is prominently featured in the main navigation, and the new page lists multiple ways to join/follow/participate in ITANA.

- TBD: We'd like to feature working group events/meetings on this page (and possibly the home page). This will take some more coordination with the working group leaders. A first step would be to get them on the Google calendar.

Groups page: This page is just reformatted a bit for consistency with the other top level pages.

Library page: Reformatted at bit, and features the "recently discussed" content that also appears on the home page.

- TBD: Following the Spring Face2Face, we have an opportunity to reorganize the Library page around those new resources, and focus the Library on resources that are recent and "living".

About page: This area includes various topics previously hosted on the WordPress site, such as the Charter and Capability Map.
